How to enter: Select, with a particular emphasis on fielding, the best current NatWest England XI from the 54 players listed below who have already represented England in Limited-Overs Internationals and who will be available to play County Cricket in 1986. Their full England One-Day records appear on pages 208-210. All have appeared in NatWest Trophy matches. Don't forget to add your name and address. Entry is free.

Your Choice: On 3 February 1986, Trevor Bailey (Chairman), Fred Titmus and Pat Pocock selected an England team to play a 60-overs match against a Rest of the World XI at Lord's this summer.

Their more difficult selections were decided by superior fielding ability. You have to guess their team. Full physical fitness of all the following 54 players was guaranteed: AGNEW, ALLOTT, AMISS, ATHEY, BAILEY (R.J.), BAIRSTOW, BARLOW, BOTHAM, BOYCOTT, BUTCHER (A.R.), BUTCHER (R.O), COOK (G.), COOK (N.G.B.), COWANS, COWDREY (C.S.), DILLEY, DOWNTON, EDMONDS, ELLISON (R.M.), EMBUREY, FLETCHER (K.W.R.), FOSTER, FOWLER (G.), FRENCH, GATTING, GIFFORD, GOOCH, GOULD, GOWER, HEMMINGS, HUMPAGE, JESTY, LAMB, LARKINS, LEVER, LLOYD (T.A.), LOVE, MARKS, MILLER (G.), MOXON, OLD, POCOCK, PRINGLE, RADLEY, RANDALL, RICHARDS (C.J.), ROBINSON (R.T.), ROSE (B.C.), SMITH (C.L.), STEVENSON (G.B.), TAVARÉ, UNDERWOOD, WELLS (C.M.), WILLEY.

PREFACE

For the first time since 1953 the cover of this Annual does not bear the name of Gordon Ross. For 32 years he edited these pages with absolute efficiency and meticulous adherence to deadlines. He was the complete professional. Honoured and delighted though I am to become Playfair's third editor – Peter West edited the first six editions – I regret that it resulted from the death of a very good friend of twenty years standing. Besides being an extremely versatile writer who upheld the traditional values of cricket and could write with equal authority on half a dozen other sports, he was a most able public relations consultant. Possibly his most important contribution to cricket involved his administration of the Gillette Cup. His expertise and attention to detail produced the basis for all subsequent cricket sponsorship. He even devised Match Awards.

Gordon's last hours were spent watching Middlesex play Worcestershire at his beloved Lord's, with Kapil Dev treating him to a vintage hundred between lunch and tea. Only a few days earlier he had written his last piece for publication* and it is good to know that he derived such pleasure from the game to which he gave so much:

> 'Of course I enjoy Test cricket, but perhaps in a strange and unrelated way I enjoy Lord's more when Middlesex are playing a three-day County game (it doesn't matter which county), when there is the peace (unhappily because of lack of supporters) that we used to know, when you can drift round the old place chatting to players, umpires, scorers, groundsmen, administrators, friends, acquaintances, even to perfect strangers. As the shadows lengthen, stumps are drawn and the sun sets you are in the mood of thankfulness that it has been your great piece of luck to enjoy a lifetime of cricket as a profession. I remember thinking this vividly one morning when walking along the tow-path from the Diglis Hotel, over the bridge and into the ground at Worcester to cover a game for The Times, when at that moment hordes would be walking over London Bridge and spilling out of commuter trains at Victoria to earn a living in a much less appealing way. I am forever grateful to the gods for their kindness.'

After 38 editions Playfair has established a unique style and a readership in excess of 60,000. Rest assured that I have no intention of meddling with its basic format or in essence with its contents. What I have tried to do is to remove any errors of setting or compilation, and to clarify its presentation, particularly with regard to the Who's Who and county records sections.

The Who's Who section has been completely re-compiled. Each player's entry now follows the same format, the succession of data being in a set order, with heights included for the first time. Career bests in limited-overs matches are set at the end of each entry. Where space has permitted, details for players whose careers ended last year appear at the end of each county section rather than under a separate Valete heading. County scorers, my most helpful and dedicated allies, are also listed.

I have added a few details to the Test match scores so that they provide a supplement to The Wisden Book of Test Cricket. Umpires, second innings batting orders, the toss, and debutants are included, together with full averages for each series.

New items include records for limited-overs internationals, University Match records and winners, Minor Counties averages and the Second XI Championship table. All constructive comments about this volume and ideas for the next will be warmly appreciated.

I would like to thank Alan Samson of Queen Anne Press for entrusting me with the honour of editing this edition, to his editor, Pamela Dix, for her expertise and encouragement, and to Paula Dixon for helping considerably with its preparation.

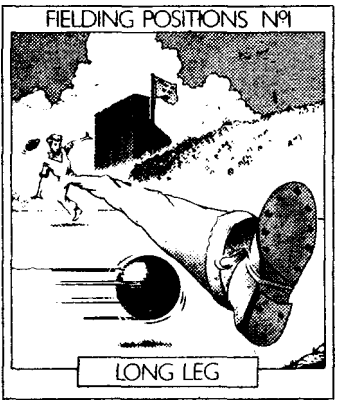
BILL FRINDALL



Over the years, we've taken up some interesting positions ourselves.

In 327 years of banking, we've achieved quite a bit and after only six years' major involvement in cricket, our record is already impressive.

In 1981 we introduced the NatWest Trophy; one of the country's most sought after limited overs trophies.

Each season the competition attracts over 100,000 spectators to cricket grounds. And we're active off the field, too. Together with the National Cricket Association we've produced a first-class series of coaching films. We lend our support to the Under 13's Ken Barrington Cup. And the National Cricket Association Proficiency Award Scheme also gets our backing.

Right now our relationship with cricket couldn't be sunnier. Nor our position clearer.

THE ASHES REGAINED – HIGHLIGHTS

1st Test. For the first time Leeds staged the opening Test of an Ashes series. The first Test to have a standby umpire (R. Julian) in attendance, it was also the first in England in which no-balls and wides were debited to bowlers' analyses. Botham was the second England bowler after W. Voce (Sydney 1936-37) to take three wickets in four balls against Australia. England's total of 533 was their highest against Australia at Headingley.

2nd Test. Gower lost the toss for the sixth successive time in Tests. Border (196) recorded the highest score by an Australian captain at Lord's (beating 155 by W.M. Woodfull in 1930), and completed 5,000 Test runs in the record time of 6 years 186 days. In taking five or more wickets in an innings for the 25th time, Botham gained the world Test record held by S.F. Barnes since 1914. When Wood became his 326th victim, Botham succeeded R.G.D. Willis as England's leading wicket-taker.

3rd Test. Gower's 166 was his first Test century for 23 innings, and the highest score by an England captain at Trent Bridge. Wood completed 1,000 runs against England and 3,000 runs in Tests; his 599-minute innings was the second-longest for Australia in England. Australia achieved their highest total at Trent Bridge. Robinson's 77 not out was the highest score by a Nottinghamshire batsman against Australia on his home ground.

4th Test. Border succumbed to England's first stumping in a home Test since 1980. Gower completed 5,000 runs in 74 Tests in 7 years 62 days – the fastest of England's nine instances. Gatting's first century against Australia was also his first in 40 Test innings in England. At 20 years 113 days McDermott became the youngest Australian to take eight wickets in a Test innings.

5th Test. Gower became the first England captain to put Australia into bat in successive Tests. Thomson's 200th wicket in 51 Tests was also his 100th in 21 matches against England. Gower's score of 215 was the highest against Australia at Edgbaston (beating 180 by E.R. Dexter in 1961); he exceeded D.C.S. Compton's record aggregate for a home Ashes series of 562 in 1948. The second-wicket partnership of 331 between Robinson and Gower was England's second-highest for any wicket against Australia. Botham (28 Tests) succeeded R.G.D. Willis (128 wickets in 35 matches) as the leading wicket-taker against Australia.

6th Test. Australia followed-on against England for the first time since 1977 (Headingley). On the first day, England (376-3) achieved their highest total in a single day's play against Australia since 1938 (409-5 at Lord's). Gower took his aggregate for the rubber to 732 (the fourth-highest for England against all countries), and became the ninth England batsman to complete 2,000 runs against Australia; for the second consecutive innings he shared in a triple-century stand.

(Cornhill series receipts: £2,467,030. Attendance: 373,000).

Over the years, we've taken up some interesting positions ourselves.

In 327 years of banking, we've achieved quite a bit and after only six years' major involvement in cricket, our record is already impressive.

In 1981 we introduced the NatWest Trophy; one of the country's most sought after limited overs trophies.

Each season the competition attracts over 100,000 spectators to cricket grounds. And we're active off the field, too. Together with the National Cricket Association we've produced a first-class series of coaching films. We lend our support to the Under 13's Ken Barrington Cup. And the National Cricket Association Proficiency Award Scheme also gets our backing.

Right now our relationship with cricket couldn't be sunnier. Nor our position clearer.

LLOYD ENDS TEST CAREER

After leading West Indies to an emphatic 3-1 victory in Australia in 1984-85, Clive Lloyd confirmed his retirement from Test cricket. His decision brought to an end the most successful captaincy career at Test level.

Lloyd's record as CAPTAIN stands supreme:

Most Tests	74
Most victories	36
Most successive victories	11
Most consecutive matches without defeat	26†

† West Indies achieved a sequence of 27 Tests without defeat but Lloyd did not play in the 2nd Test v Australia in 1983-84.

Under his captaincy West Indies were undefeated in 18 matches against England (11 wins and 7 draws).

West Indies were defeated in just two of the 18 rubbers during Lloyd's reign: in Australia 1975-76 and in New Zealand 1979-80.

At the time of his retirement, Lloyd had appeared in more Test matches than anyone except Colin Cowdrey (114), and only Boycott, Cowdrey and Gavaskar had played more innings in Tests.

His aggregate of 7,515 runs was the second-highest for West Indies and had then been exceeded only by Gavaskar, Boycott, Sobers and Cowdrey. Only Sobers (26) had scored more hundreds for West Indies. Curiously, although he scored centuries against England (5), Australia (6), India (7) and Pakistan (1), his highest score in eight Tests against New Zealand was only 44.

Only Sobers (109) had exceeded Lloyd's total of 89 catches in the field for West Indies.

MIDDLESEX WIN BRITANNIC ASSURANCE CHAMPIONSHIP

Middlesex won the 1985 Britannic Assurance County Championship by 18 points at 3.01 on the final afternoon of the season. In doing so they overcame the loss of half their side to Test calls (not to mention the pre-season doubts of their captain), but were greatly helped in the wettest of summers by losing only 59 hours of play, the equivalent of nine complete days. Only Nottinghamshire (42 hours) lost less, whereas Northamptonshire (160 hours) and Gloucestershire (143.5) suffered most.

Congratulations to Middlesex must be tempered by revealing that they won only a third of their matches, their total of eight victories being the lowest by any champion county since 1903. Only 37% of matches produced positive results, the lowest in the entire history of the Championship. The obscene weather was mostly to blame but the current bonus points system places too great an emphasis on the first innings of matches. In each of the last 18 seasons the combined total of bonus points has exceeded that of points awarded for victory. In 1985 only 1,216 points were gained by winning matches compared with 2,054 bonus points.

Middlesex were alone in boasting four bowlers with over fifty wickets: Daniel 79, Cowans 60, Williams 54, Edmonds 51. Wayne Daniel's form, fitness, and recovery of a yard of pace were crucial factors in this unexpected success. Nor were their batsmen idle; Graham Barlow scored hundreds in each of five successive mid-season matches, Wilf Slack carried his bat through the first innings of his most successful season, Clive Radley marked his 22nd Championship year with his first double century, and Paul Downton contributed his maiden first-class hundred.

By August only Hampshire and Gloucestershire, 15th and last respectively in 1984, were serious challengers to Gatting's surprised team. Hampshire, although excitingly led by Mark Nicholas and reinforced by Greenidge and Marshall, failed to win a match between July 9 and August 27. Gloucestershire owed much to their influx of new and borrowed talent. By awarding seven caps they equalled the post-war record set by Lancashire and Warwickshire in 1946. Three of them – Walsh, Lawrence and Curran – shared 213 Championship wickets at 22.49 runs apiece.

Somerset's abject failure was as startling as the triumph of Middlesex.

Despite the services of three world-class players, they finished last for the first time since 1969. Although they gained the most batting bonus points (70), they could manage only a paltry 45 for bowling, 40 fewer than the champions. Botham and Richards jointly amassed 3,047 runs (avge 84.63), with 14 hundreds and 123 sixes in the competition. Botham scored 1,211 runs and averaged an incredible 100.91 per innings. His century off 50 balls with just 26 scoring strokes in 49 minutes against Warwickshire comfortably won the Walter Lawrence Trophy. In all first-class matches he averaged 124.8 runs/100 balls, 60.4 runs/hour and 2.96 sixes per innings. His 80 sixes easily exceeded the world record set by Arthur Wellard 50 years earlier. Richards enjoyed the rare privilege of earning three batting bonus points on his own on the first day, his 322 against Warwickshire being the highest innings for Somerset and by a West Indian in Britain.

COUNTY CHAMPIONS

The English County Championship was not officially constituted until December 1889. Prior to that date there was no generally accepted method of awarding the title; although the 'least matches lost' method existed, it was not consistently applied. Rules governing playing qualifications were not agreed until 1873, and the first unofficial points system was not introduced until 1888. Recent research has produced a list of champions dating back to 1826, but at least seven different versions exist for the period from 1864 to 1889 (see The Wisden Book of Cricket Records). Only from 1890 can any authorised list of county champions commence. From 1977 to 1983 the Championship was sponsored by Schweppes, and since 1984 by Britannic Assurance.

ESSEX WIN NATWEST TROPHY

For the third time in its five-year existence the NatWest Trophy Final was decided off the very last ball. Essex won a most memorable match by a single run to claim their first 60-overs match title. When the last over began Nottinghamshire, needing 18 to win, seemed completely out of the hunt. Such situations have always brought the best out of Derek Randall and he plundered 16 runs off Derek Pringle's first five offerings (24244). Fletcher took a full minute to calm and set his fielders for the final ball. Randall again moved outside his leg stump to hit it on the off, was tucked up, and could only clip it to Paul Prichard who pulled down a difficult catch at mid-wicket. Put in, Gooch and Hardie opted for the steady start, the first six overs yielding just six runs. Then Brian Hardie took control and played the innings of his life, reaching 40 before Gooch could advance from 10. His audacity undermined Notts and richly deserved the match award. Their stand of 202 was a record for any wicket in an English final and provided a perfect springboard for a farewell cameo of deftly timed strokes by Ken McEwan. Undaunted by the fact that no side batting second had scored 281 in a final at Lord's, Robinson, Broad and Hadlee kept Notts on schedule. Lever's accuracy and some inspired fielding set them back before Randall, abetted by an impressive first limited-overs innings by Duncan Martindale, almost snatched a most improbable victory. An extremely relieved Fletcher thus became the first captain to lead his side to all four county titles.

LEICESTERSHIRE OUST FAVOURITES TO WIN BENSON AND HEDGES CUP

Guided by the determined professionalism of Peter Willey, Leicestershire won the Benson and Hedges Cup for the third time. In doing so they recorded the highest total to win the final of this competition by a team batting second, beating Essex, the undoubted favourites, by three wickets with 18 balls to spare.

Scheduled for the middle of the wettest portion of one of the more miserable apologies for any English summer, the final was blessed with that rare surprise, a fine day. An inevitably sluggish pitch made for a dour and predictable match until Peter Willey, perhaps inspired by the Randallesque impetuosity of Garnham's running between the wickets, accelerated the end by forcing boundaries off four of the last ten balls he faced. Willey's calmness, allied to the immense strength of forearm which brought him half his side's boundaries, steered the Cup back to Grace Road after a ten-year absence and eased Denis Compton's adjudication worries.

Psychologically Essex probably never atoned for the loss of both their injured captain and the toss. Although the absence of their canny old gnome thrust extra pressure on Graham Gooch, he led the side most ably, contributed his 25th fifty in 60 innings in this competition, and temporarily recovered the initiative for Essex with a dramatic spell of swing bowling which claimed two wickets at a cost of only five runs in 14 balls, and earned him the accolade of an umpire's warning for damaging the pitch.

JOHN PLAYER LEAGUE 1985

ESSEX COMPLETE UNIQUE DOUBLE

Essex emulated Lancashire and Kent by retaining the John Player League title. On the final evening of the competition and only eight days after their last-ball NatWest Trophy triumph, they achieved a unique double in a similarly desperate finish. A capacity Chelmsford crowd saw Foster secure a two-wicket win against Yorkshire with an on-drive off the penultimate ball of the match. It completed a sequence of eight wins in nine matches, gained the Sunday trophy for the third time (equalling Kent's record), and was a fitting reward for the team. It is hard to believe that, until 1979, Essex had failed to claim a single title in 103 years of existence. This success was their eighth in seven years (three Championships, two Cup Finals and three Sunday Leagues), and it brought their winnings for the season to £50,000. What a marvellous finale to Keith Fletcher's reign as captain and to Ken McEwan's career in England. Had Essex failed to reach their target of 232, Sussex would have gained their Sunday title. After comfortably defeating Glamorgan to earn a temporary two-point lead, they could only watch their dressing-room television in disbelief as Paul Prichard's inspired strokeplay yielded 14 runs during the 39th over to virtually seal their fate.

FIRST-CLASS CAREER RECORDS

Compiled by Brian Heald and Geoffrey Saulez

The following career records are for all players who appeared in first-class cricket during the 1985 season. Some players who did not appear for their counties in 1985, but who are likely to do so in 1986, are also included.

BATTING AND FIELDING

'1000' denotes instances of 1000 or more runs in a season. Where such aggregates have been achieved outside the United Kingdom they are shown after a plus sign.

Tied Matches

Before 1948 a match was considered to be tied if the scores were level after the fourth innings, even if the side batting last had wickets in hand when play ended. Law 22 was amended in 1948 and since then a match has been tied only when the scores are level after the fourth innings has been completed. There have been 46 tied first-class matches, five of which would not have qualified under the current law. The most recent are:

Victoria (230-5d/245) v New Zealanders (301-9d/174-3d), Melbourne	1982-83

THE 1986 SEASON

Tours by first India and then New Zealand highlight the 1986 fixture list. Each will be playing a three-match rubber against England, with Cornhill Insurance continuing the sponsorship which they began in 1978. For the first time the opening Tests of both series will be at Lord's.

India, reigning world champions of limited-overs cricket, will be especially anxious to achieve a Test victory. In 42 matches since defeating Keith Fletcher's England team at Bombay in December 1981, they have won only once and been beaten 12 times. Perhaps even more remarkable is the fact that Kapil Dev is still looking for his first victory after leading India in 20 Tests.

Two rising stars will be making their first appearances in England. Mohammed Azharuddin, who announced his arrival at international level by uniquely scoring hundreds in each of his first three Tests, and the 20-year-old leg-spinner, Laxman Sivaramakrishnan, who played havoc with both batsmen and copy-takers by taking 19 wickets in his first two Tests against England. 'Siva' will be hoping that the three gods whose names he bears provide more favourable weather and pitches than those responsible for Bob Holland's welfare managed last season.

Also on display for the first time will be India's dashing opening batsman, Krishnamachari Srikkanth, and lively new-ball bowler, Chetan Sharma. Sunil Gavaskar will be looking forward to the Third Test at Edgbaston and his 115th Test cap – a world record to add to his tallies of runs (9,192) and hundreds (32).

After their historic 2-1 victory in Australia, New Zealand will undoubtedly fancy their chances of winning a series in England for the first time. Much will depend on Richard Hadlee retaining the form and fitness which accounted for 33 wickets in that short rubber. His knowledge of English batsmen and pitches is second to none and the Second Test will be played at Trent Bridge, his adopted home ground. Not since Alec Bedser's day has one bowler carried a national attack to such an extent.

Their batting has plenty of depth with John Wright, Martin Crowe and Jeremy Coney well-versed in English conditions. Although he will be making his first visit here, John Reid (unrelated to his famous namesake), enjoyed considerable success on recent visits to Pakistan and Australia, confirming his temperament and application in a succession of long innings. On such Barringtonian performances are Test match victories based.
